Memorial bricks blessed

Newly placed Memorial bricks are blessed and dedicated by Father Joseph D'Aurora, pastor of St. Patrick parish, Lexington, in a brief ritual which took place after the Masses on the weekend of May 1. The 110 bricks are inscribed with the names of deceased and living loved ones in the St. Patrick parish family. Also included are the names of all priests who have served the parish since 1953 when the current church on Nelson Street was dedicated. The Memorial Brick sidewalk frames an Italian carved Guardian Angel statue donated by the Knights of Columbus Council and which is intended to memorialize all lives cut short through abortion. The hope is for the garden space to become a place of reflection and prayer.
